TROUBLE WITH SOLDIERS. Fort Douglas Men Make Threats Against the Police Officers.

The police had more trouble ould-be tough soldiers from Fort Douglas last night, the result being that some of them were landed behind the bars. W. S. Miles, a private, got drunk and taking a stand on Second th and State street, began to creat disturbance and tell the public what he could do. Officer Seigfus came along and arrested the fellow, but he put up a vicious fight, and Seigfus had to give him a sound thrashing before he vould behave. Some of Miles' friend ollected and swore they would make a raid on the jail and rescue their com panion. They proceeded to the hall, led by William Wilds, who began to in a threatening manner unti Seigfus gave him a smash in the nos nd landed him in a cell with Miles A great many threats have been made inst Seigfus, and Chief Paul ha Instructed his men that if any of the soldiers interfered with them in the dis charge of their duty, to use weapons and use them with effect. BLAZE THIS MORNING.

ORGAN RECITALS OVER TILL SPRING.

The announcement was made today by Prof. McClellan that he had received instructions from the First Presidency to discontinue organ recitals in the Tabernacle until further orders, which it is expected will come again in the spring. During the season Mr. McClellan has given nearly sixty regular and thirtyseven special recitals which have een listened to and applauded by thousands. Tomorrow's re cital will be given over entire to the concert arranged by Prof. Stephens in honor of the return to Salt Lake of Robert C. Easton the well known Utah tenor, and will be a pay affair.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.

Saloon Man Must See Chief Paul-Gordon Water Right.

The council comittee on license last the matter of revoking his license for the Del Monte saloon for violating the Sunday liquor ordinance. Pyper was tried before a jury and was acquitted, but when the matter of the revocation came up, Chief Paul stated that Pyper was guilty and recommended that his license be revoked, which was done. Mr. Pyper and his attorney appeared before the committee last night and asked that he be granted a new cense as he had an opportunity to sell his place provided he could secure a license. He maintained that Chief Paul had no right to state that he was guilty after a jury had decided that he was not guilty. The committee informed not guilty. The committee informed Mr. Pyper that he would have to see Chief Paul and get a recommendation from him before a license could be granted as the matter had passed out

The special committee on reservoir site considered the purchase of the Gordon water right, for which the ownthe city $145,000. John P. hoon, Peter Gordan and Judge Loofbourow appeared in the interest of the owners. They were requested to apter was referred to City Engineer Kel-sey to investigate the title and to submit an estimate of the cost of conveying the water from the canyon to city's big ditch, a distance of two and a half miles.

The sanitary committee decided to recommend that the second partial estimate of $5,695.50, on the new crema-tory be paid, as the city is protected from loss by reason of the fact that the contract allows it to retain $500 of the purchase price for repairs when

The committee on Jordan canal and irrigation approved the action of Audi-Reiser in refusing to draw warrant for the payment of $714.99 to the canal companies as the city's proportion of the pumping plant expenses until vouchers or other written evidence of the expenditures be filed in connection with the bill.

A petition for a rehearing in the case of Andrew Anderson vs Alfred R. Anderson was denied by the supreme court yesterday afternoon and the decision of that court will stand as heretofore rendered.

Louise L. Bray has filed a second for divorce against her husband, Wil-liam E. Bray, proprietor of a Second South street restaurant, on the grounds of cruel treatment. She alleges that he has struck her on various occasions and has used vile, harsh and abusive language toward her. She asks for $1,000 as alimony and the possession of their household furniture. The first suit for divorce was filed on July 31 last and was on the same grounds as the pres-ent one. The couple made up, however, and Mrs. Bray withdrew her action on Aug. 15, only to commence another in less than 60 days as it developed.

The case of Frederick Pope et al vs Irwin B. Worseldine et al has been dis-missed by Judge Hall upon stipulation and at plaintiff's cost.

The supreme court has granted the petition for an alternate writ of man-date in the case of the State of Utan ex rel Fred Hansen et al vs Judge C. H. Hart, of the First district. The write was asked for to compel Judge Hart to n his court which the judge held was an equity case and not entitled to a trial by jury. The writ is returnable before the supreme court on Thursday

AN OUTRAGE

If what the "News" had to say last night of the theft of Mr. Wheeler's berse and the indifference of the "officials" to his demand for redress was true it shows a state of affairs that should call for condemnation by all honorable persons. A boy steals a horse and sells it, ye tell the man he must buy back his horse in order to obtain it. Surely there is some mistake, cannot be possible that such a t can be done in a city that boasts as much as this does of its intelligence, its religion, its "civilization."

If the "News" report is true it re-veals a state of official corruption that would disgrace the government of a the suspicion that the man who bought Mr. Wheeler's horse for 50 cents, paid 50 cents more to buy up the police sta-tion and the office of the county at

SPIRITUALISTIC FAKIRS EXPOSED

How Arnold and Dixon Communed With the Other World

WIRES FOR FURTHER ORDERS

Perfect Network Found in the Building They Occupied on West Temple Street.

Of all the spiritualists, mind readers and clairvoyants who ever defrauded the public, the so-called spiritualists, Arnold and Dixon, who held forth at night gave B. T. Pyper a hearing on Mrs. Williams' rooming house at 253 south West Temple street, where mysterious knockings from supposed departed spirits were heard nightly (for a consideration), are entitled to first

But that the public would allow itself to be defrauded by such a palpable fake is even more mysterious than the knocking of the spirits and the photographing of the ghosts.

These fellows, Dixon and Arnold, held forth there for several days until the landlady became indignant and ordered them to leave. Failing to comply with the orders the fellows were very properly ejected. They have left for other parts, to commune with other people's Yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Williams telephoned for Detective Gillespie and asked him to come down to the place and see what the spiritualists had done. It happened to be on Officer Parry's beat and the two officers went together. The spiritualists had used a room in the southern part of the building. The officers went to work and soon discovered a perfect network of wires under the wainscoting and the mop boards on e wall. There were dozens of these tie wires. They would be almost invisible but for the wrapping on them. Of course as they were run behind the boards and under the carpets they could not be seen by the persons who "bit" and were defrauded. The wires had been connected with various pieces of furniture and a little pressure on a certain part of a table or hair would produce the knocking. This is done by cutting a small space into a piece of furniture where the wires were placed in such a manner that by pressing on the place they would come in contact and the spirits would do the anvil chorus stunt. They would not only do a hammer solo in one part of the room, but the knocking would be heard in any part you asked to hear from-just to show that the spirits were "real things" and could move about.

The battery which furnished the power that duped so many persons, was secreted in the cellar. The fellows had creted in the cellar. The fellows had sneaked into the cellar, dug a small hole, placed the battery into it and then cleverly concealed it. They were careful to remove everything they possibly could before leaving, but they were unable to remove the wires.

As soon as the officers found the wires they went to work, and the job was not a long one. Those spirits must have been greatly shocked to see a couple of ing a little knocking itself, tear out rough hands the little wires that had communicated with the "unseen world." But they were torn out and nothing now remains but the memory of the 'spiritualists" and the fraud they practiced while here.

CONVENTION OF STOCKMEN

Arrangements Now Making for Kansas City Meeting, Jan. 13, 1903.

GOOD APPOINTMENTS URGED

Some of the Benefits to be Berived From Such a Meeting-Hearty Support Wanted.

The time is approaching when stock associations and kindred organizations will appoint delegates to the sixth annual convention of the National Live Stock association which meets in Kansas City on the 13th of next January. The character of this meeting is such, and the questions to be considered are of such vast importance to the industry, that only the best men are to be appointed as delegates and then only upon their promising to attend. The merging of the packing houses of the country, the public domain, discrimination in freight rates, the classified census of live stock, the Grosvenor shoddy bill, tariff so far as it relates to the live stock industry and other subjects which mean mil-lions to those interested, and in some will be discussed. If any delegate has a new idea, or he believes any particular subject will be the advancement of the indus-try, he will be invited to get up in the convention and discuss it and give his fellow delegates the benefit of his instances the very life of the business, investigations. The National organization as well as state associations should receive the support of stockmen. In all branches of trade, manufacture and commerce, national organizations are sup-ported with vast sums of money, alhough any two of them are of lesser importance than that of live stock. During the first session of the present Congress when the oleomargarine fight was on, every dairyman was assessed by the National Dairy association $50 and 25 cents a week additional. This brought together a vast campaign fund, and was in large measure the cause of the defeat of the stockmen, whose treasury had less than $4,000 for

The stock association has accomplished many good results during its five years of existence, such as free black leg vaccine, feeding-in-transit rates on western railways, the classifled census of livestock, and the ap-pointment of federal inspectors for inter-state shipments. It now has before Congress bills providing for the proper marking of all shoddy goods, to amend the inter-state commerce act, and the 28-hour law. The assessment levied for carrying on this work is but 50 cents per thousand head of stock per annum. one-twentieth of 1 cent per head, a sum so insignificant to think of when the importance of the work is taken into consideration. For the purpose of demonstrating this matter one case may be taken only. At the beginning of the present Congress, the eastern manufactures prepared to ask that body to remove the duty on wool and hides. The national association prevented such action being taken. Had the stockmen not had an organization to represent them, the manufacturers would have been successful, which would have meant a direct loss of $1.25 to cattlemen on every animal they own, and an average of 77 cents on every sheep in the United States. This would have been an annual loss of $12,500,000 to the cattlemen of the nation and $33. 220,000 to the sheepmen. Now as that $1.25, the duty saved to the stockmen on the hide of one steer, will pay the assessments in the national organizaon on 1,000 steers for two years and a half, it would appear to be good busi-ness to maintain such an association to look after these affairs at the national capital. All stockmen and those now members of the association are urged to give this movement their hearty support as here-tofore, and those not members should join at once so they may have representation at the Kansas City meeting. which promises to be the most important ever held in this country. DEATH OF THOS. R. HIGHAM Old Resident of This City Goes to His Reward.

The death of Thomas R. Higham one of Utah's earliest settlers, occurred at the family residence in this city yesterday. Mr. Higham crossed the plains in company with Orson Pratt, and shared the persecutions and privations incident to early life in the alley. He took part in the Black Hawk war and in other respects lent his best efforts toward the protection f life and property, and the building up of this commonwealth. Thomas Higham was born at Eydon Northampton, England, in the 1819, and was therefore 83 years of age He joined the Church of Jesus Chris Latter-day Saints in his native land and emigrated to America in 1849 reaching Utah via New Orleans and St. Louis, in 1851. In 1855 he was mar ried to Anne Stewart, of which union five sons and two daughters surviv He has resided in the Twenty first ward for a great many years.

FLIES PREY TO HORNETS.

Rosslyn, Va., is the possessor of a number of educated hornets that play ar important part in the conduct of his business. There are 17 of these intelli-gent insects, and they have been trained to catch flies.

In this way they assist in the work of keeping the barroom free from the pestiferous six-legged black insects, which are prone to drop into a glass of the cooling beverage just as the would be drinker is raising it to his lips. The flies killed by the domesticated hornets are carried to a spot near by for private consumption. It is stated by some of the habitues of the saloon that the hornets serve another purpose. None of these partic-ular hornets would think of stinging a man, yet they often buzz around ustomers while drinking, on the look out for their prey. Since discovering the tractability of the much-maligned and generally misnderstood hornet, the saloon keeper has become somewhat of a student the animals. They seem to realize that they have found a friend, just as bees do, and will allow him to do anything with them without displaying anger or impatience. He has named most of them, and claims that he can tell them apart, and that they will answer to their names.— Washington Times.
